ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE TO ENTER LEGISLATIVE CAMPAIGN.

Watson for Congress-Mad Infatuation of a Woman at Marion.

pecial to the Indianapolis Journal. RICHMOND, Ind., Oct. 12 .- At the meetng of the Ministerial Association this morning action was taken on the subject of temperance and divorces that may have results. State Superintendent Saunderson, of the Indiana Anti-saloen League, was present, and explained to the ministers the plans that organization intends to pursue hereafter in reference to the liquor ques-

The league, in connection with anti-saloon workers, secured the passage of the blanket remonstrance feature of the liquor law at the last session of the Legislature. This law, in certain parts, is defective and the liquor interests, through their attorneys, are taking advantage of it. The liquor interests, according to Superintendent Saunderson, are putting candidates in the field except probably showers in southeast por- for the next Legislature who will be partial to their cause. Here is where the Anti-

The Ministerial Association indorsed the remarks of Superintendent Saunderson and agreed to support the cause. On the last Sunday in November the churches will held temperance services.

Springer for District Chairman.

pecial to the Indianapolis Journal. COLUMBUS, Ind., Oct. 12.-William E. Springer, of Elizabethtown, who as chairman of the Bartholomew county central Minnesota-Fair in north, showers in committee, twice piloted the Republicans of gressional district, and his selection to that position will be an honor well bestowed. Mr. Springer, who is a banker at Elizabethtown, this county, is an organizer and his success in twice successively leading the party to victory in this county is an evidence of his ability. He has the faculty of surrounding himself with Republicans who do things, and under his guiding hand the party in the well-nigh helpless Fourth every county, and Francis Marion Griffith, P. H. McCormack, George Caldwell, Willard New, or whoever the Democratic candidate for congress may be, will find the same perfect organization that lost the county to the Democratic nominee in the last two elections.

Williams to Oppose Watson.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. RICHMOND, Ind., Oct. 12.-An interest ing bit of political gossip just now is that the Rev. Otho Williams, formerly of this city, but now living in Henry county, will make the race for Congress against Repreyoung man and a good mixer, and was elected to the last State Legislature in the face of strong opposition.

COLOR RUSH AT U. OF I.

Freshmen Defeated by Sophomores After a Desperate Struggle.

special to the Indianapolis Journal. URBANA, Ill., Oct. 12.-The color rush of the freshmen and sophomores of the University of Illinois this afternoon resulted in the defeat of the lower classmen.

The freshmen had tied their colors-scarlet and olive green-to the top of a high pole and thoroughly greased the pole. About five hundred of them formed in a circle around the color pole and awaited the on-slaught of the sophs. The second-year men descended on them in solid phalanx, and, although the first rows went down in the struggle, the rest marched steadily onward until they reached the pole, and after many attempts to climb the greasy pole, and a general melee, in which noses were skinned and eyes blackened, one of the sophomore succeeded in reaching the top and pulling down the offending colors. The color rush is a time-honored institu tion at the 'varsity, and is given under the haperonage of the faculty.

MASTER HORSESHOERS.-About 200 delegates to the twelfth annual convention of the Master Horseshoers' Protective Association are in session at St. Paul, Minn. STRIKE OF ENGINEERS .- All of the stationary engineers of East Liverpool, O., belonging to the international union went on a strike to-day. All manufacturing establishments, including thirty-two potteries, are closed. The strike was declared because the manufacturers refused to recognize the union. It is not thought the trouble will be of long duration. BUCHANAN IN PITTSBURG.-Frank Buchanan, president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, arrived in Pittsburg yesterday from Indianapolis. Mr. Buchanan denied that he was there to order a general strike of the structural iron workers in sympathy with New York locals now out, as a result of a dispute with some of the large contracting firms of that city.

DEMANDS REFUSED.-Renewed refusal to grant the demands of employes for increased wages and the exclusive employment of the union men was given Monday by the Chicago City Railroad Company. C. O. Pratt, general organizer, and a committee of three amalgamated street-railway employes called at the offices with authority of the company's employes to order a referendum vote as to the advisability of a strike unless the company reconsidered an adverse answer to the demands. General Manager McCulloch told the committee that the "closed shop" and the wage increase could not be conceded Mr. McCulloch, however, repeated his offer to submit the whole case to arbitration.

FULL NAME OR INITIALS.

What Mr. Riley Calls Unjointing Becoming the Custom.

New York Commercial. borough Hotel talked interestingly the other evening about the "passing of initials," as he termed the decreasing use of one or more initials instead of the full Christian name. He said that over twelve years ago a Georgia business man of his acquaintance, who is a lyceum lecturer of local fame who occasionally mounted the of lumber carried by the schooner Rose platform, declared in a public address that the two most ridiculous things connected with civilized customs were the two buttons on the back of men's coats and the initials in front of men's names. "Who knows?" he inquired, "what the

W. stands for in 'Henry W. Grady?' "
Since that time, slowly but surely the middle initial has been replaced by the full name. The first initial had fallen into disuse some years before. "H. W. Longfellow" had become "Henry W. Longfellow." This in turn, after the poet's death, was succeeded by "Henry Wads-worth Longfellow." In like manner it was not until the brilliant Georgian had passed away that the world knew him other wise than as "Henry W. Grady." The query of that lecturer would now be pointless, as the name of Henry Woodfin Grady is to-day familiar to every intelligent person in the United States. This Georgian said also that this matter of initials and full names had come under considerable discussion in his State. An Atlanta politicians holds, he said, that the use of initials instead of the full name seems to have had its origin in a desire for brevity, as the necessity for much writing goes without any appliance for shortening its labor. 'The custom was at ington, B. Franklin"-these are the signatures that we find on old papers. The use of initials was almost universal up to the latter part of the last century. Thomas few cities is any importance Babington Macaulay called himself "T. B. thus field of municipal activity. Macaulay." General Grant was known as "These bureaus," said Mr

"U. S. Grant." The war president signed his name "A Lincoln. Whether the invention of the typewriter was responsible for the abandonment of these senseless abreviations, or whether the change was the result of the new craze for ancestors and family names, we to the English nobility and a few literary and public men became a kind of social fad, and spread rapidly among all classes. It is now the commonest thing in the world to find a successful grocer, who has always been known as "P. P. Jenks" renting a better house and heralding the movements of himself and wife as those of "Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pangbourne Jenks." Unlike most fads, the writing of one's name in full is a sensible and proper one There is no use in giving a man a name if he is to bury it in a pair of initials. Full names are also much less liable to become confused. The passing of initials, while not yet complete by any means, is vation, in on of the hospitals of this town a couple of weeks ago. She had made a brave fight for a good many years to take care of herself and her aged mother-the mother was nearly eighty-five years old when the daughter succumbed to the hardships of her life. Mother and daughter were of an excellent old Georgetown family. The daughter was reared in luxury. When her father died, leaving his affairs involved, she was a cultivated and ex-ceedingly well educated woman, but possessed of no practical method of earning a livelihood for herself and her mother. She was a fine needle woman, having picked that up in the convent where she received her education. She would spend about a day and a half in contriving a little lace tidy or dolly or bureau-scarf, and then she would go out and try to sell it for 35 cents. She sold a few of them, but not enough. Her old mother found the daughter on the floor of their bare, bleak room, in a spasm of starvation, a couple of weeks ago. The gentlewoman was taken to a hospital, and there she died a couple of days later-"lack of proper food," the doctor said. The female clerk who obtained the gen-

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 12.-The first news from the Carolina coast since the beginning of the burricane last night dispels the hope that the treacherous shoals between Currituck and Hatters have not claimed their quota of ill-fated craft. Two vessels are known to have been lost on that stretch of the coast and further reports are expected to bring news of more wrecks, as at this time three schooners are missing with one barge. Two schooners and a barge in addition to those wrecked between Cape Henry and Dam-Neck were lost during Thursday and Friday. The crews of the schooners were saved, but the barge went down with all hands on The tug Buccaneer, Capt. Joseph Lane, reports that the barge Oracle foundered off Cape Henry with Captain Cykson, her cook and three seamen, all white. The tug sailed from Baltimore towing the Oracle, which was coal laden. Off Hog island the storm struck her on Thursday and the barge Observer A. W. Drinkwater, of the Currituck station, reached Norfolk to-day by the inland route and reported the loss the schooners Mabel Rose and J. W. Holden. The life savers had seen the Rose about 2 p. m., Saturday, with her crew in the rigging, but she was then two miles out at sea and nothing could be done for her. At 4 a. m. Sunday the life savers succeeded in shooting a line across the wreck and rescuing the captain and crew of seven men. It is estimated that the cargo was worth more than $50,000. The three-masted schooner J. B. Holden, of Suffolk, is ashore near False Cape. Va., and is a total loss. Her captain, W. O. Cranmer, of Suffolk, and her crew were taken off by the life savers. The Holden was heavily laden with lumber and an at-

Short Measure. New York Tribune. "You can depend upon it that in any city where there is not an efficient bureau of weights and measures the poor are being defrauded," said James B. Reynolds before the Summer School of Philanthropy. "This is true of all classes, but especially of the poor, for when a man is down there are ten times as many people ready to hit him as when he is up."

Mr. Reynolds had been asked, as secre tary to the mayor, to speak on municipal action in relation to the welfare of the oor. He was fortified with an array of balances possessed of a profit-making its height about a century ago. "G. Wash- of gouged-out weights and loaded scale pans, and what he had to say about the bureau of licenses and weights and measures was particularly illuminating, for in few cities is any importance attached to

"These bureaus," said Mr. "deal primarily with businesses in which the two parties to a transaction do not meet upon an equal footing, as in the pawnshop employment agency and pushcart pe Here is a scale pan taken from a pushcart stand. It was used in weighing out cherries and the four or five inches of putty which cannot say. But about ten years ago the lined the inside of the thing were placed custom of writing one's name in full, there for a purpose. You paid for so many which had up to that time been restricted cherries and for so much putty when you ring takes the place of the putty. "Recently there was an investigation of the weighing in the fish market, where the pushcart men were obliged to congregate on account of the insanitary conditions prevailing on the street. Out of fifty-three spring scales twenty-eight were short two ounces or more. One man's scales were short twelve ounces. The method of weighing with these scales was to jounce the pan up and down while the weight was being taken. The needle was sooner or later sure to pass the figure bargained for, but the purchaser never knew whether it bel there or not. Now we insist on a stationary beam, so that the weighing process is not such a spring board exercise." Speaking of the fraudulent weighing in the sale of coal in London Mr. Reynolds said: "I believe that even worse practices prevail here. because we are more clever and enterprising than the English.

In conclusion, Mr. Reynolds pointed out the relation between private and public effort for the welfare of the poor: "Government must be more or less conservative." he said. /"It is the province of private philanthropic enterprise to experiment, while the government should stand ready doing for the many what private philanthropy has done for the few.
